Daily Thought.

"Every time you waste a penny you mar a dollar."

OUR EXPORT TRADE.

After Rockefeller's warning that the government's interference with interstate commerce is hurting our prestige and trade abroad, the government's export statistics for the month of September are interesting, and especially that part concerning the value of meat products shipped to foreign countries, for Rockefeller made an illustration of the effect on the European mind of the president's message relating to the condition of Chicago packing houses.

The report speaks for itself. Here are the words of the report:

The value of meat and dairy products exported from the United States in the month of September, 1906, was $16,008,270, against $12,799,893 in September, 1905, and $11,894,822 in September, 1904. For the nine months ending with September the value of meat and dairy products exported was $147,795,647, against $122,544,314 in the corresponding months of 1905 and $109,369,576 in the corresponding period of 1904. The only class of meat products showing a marked decline in exports is canned beef, of which the exportations for the nine months of the present year are $1 million pounds, against $2 1/2 millions in the corresponding months of last year, a part of this decline being due to a large reduction in the demands from Japan.

Members of the general council are the direct representatives of the people. It might be said, of course, that all elective officers are representative of the people in a way; but the general council is a meeting of regular intervals of a body composed of men from each subdivision of the city and the city at large, delegated to act for the people on all matters of municipal business directly affecting their constituents.

It is to the general council the people look to see their interests protected, and it is this delegated authority that makes the council more representative than the executive branch of the city government. Both legislative and executive branches have their functions, but the scope of the council's authority in a city is broader than that of the executive, the latter, with the mayor at the head, being divided into different departments, each with limited and well defined jurisdiction. Even within its own province each department of the executive branch is under the supervision of the general council. Naturally, the confidence the members of the general council repose in the efficiency and integrity of the head of any of these various departments will have much to do with the attitude allowed it; but at best, the picture placed on the executive by the law and the general council is a picture to men used to they may be excused for mild, executive-session protests. It is said to be wonderfully soothing under such circumstances to be able to publish one's complaint, so one can read it aloud to himself and agree with it.

Frank McMullen, president of the National Association of Underwriters, says the $21,000,000 misappropriated by the big insurance companies in 10 years represents but 2 cents on each dollar of the $982,000,000 collected in premiums. Why, sure! And compared with all the money in the world it is a mere bagatelle. How we quibble over trifles. Let us turn our attention to building libraries and founding great institutions of learning.

If American heiresses would exercise as much shrewdness in securing husbands as their old fathers did in acquiring their fortunes, could buy cheaper counts and dukes that would look just as big to us, and the wives themselves wouldn't look any smaller to Europe.

So, Count Boni's wife will lose her divorce suit rather than divulge the names of the co-respondents in the case, for fear they and their friends may ostracize her. If that is the kind of society she is trying to move in, she doesn't deserve any relief.

It is surprising how calm a general council can remain when a member of some city department wriggles out from under the councilman's thumb long enough to shake his fist at the august body and threaten it with the penitentiary.

Tom Bigfoot, an Indian runner entrusted with the ballots in Nevada, has disappeared with them. The fellow they entrust with the ballots in Chicago is called "Big Mitt."

Theatrical Notes

Tuesday Night—"45 Minutes from Broadway."
Friday Night—"A Crown of Thorns."
Saturday Matinee and Night—"The Girl of the Streets."

Manager Roberts had a big sale for "45 Minutes from Broadway" this morning. The balcony was nearly sold out at 11 o'clock. There are plenty of good seats left down stairs, however. Cairo reports the entire house sold out there in an hour and a half.

Forty-five Minutes from Broadway. "Forty-five Minutes from Broadway," the music play from the prolific pen of the hardworking and energetic George M. Cohan, is so well known by reputation to the majority of our theater-goers that the announcement of its forthcoming production at the Kentucky tomorrow night, conveys with it more than the usual interest. This play has enjoyed a remarkable career ever since its first production over a year ago, attaining a degree of popularity seldom scored by any production in recent years. It has played two engagements in Chicago covering a period of thirty weeks, while New York thought so well of it that it crowded the Amsterdam theater for twenty weeks. The entire season and most of the last summer, the play remained one of the principal attractions in these two cities, making a record for theatrical receipts that are almost sensational in their figures. This season Messrs. Klaw & Erlanger are sending the play on tour with a remarkable cast of favorites headed by Corinne and with a scenic production gorgeous and complete in every detail, requiring two of the largest baggage cars for its transportation. The three scenes shown in the play are said to be of mammoth proportions. The engagement is being looked forward to with much interest, and will doubtless prove one of society theatrical events of the season.

Big Theatrical Trust.

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 12.—A giant theatrical trust, embracing a syndicate that will carry with it more absolute power than the Standard Oil company and which intends to control every department of the show business in the United States, is being promoted under the direction of Klaw and Erlanger who will organize a theatrical corporation with a capital of $50,000,000. Ultimately this great amusement octopus intends to control not only every theater in the United States, but absolutely to dictate terms to every owner and producer of plays, the actors who are employed in them, the writers of plays, the composers of operas and the men who manufacture and supply the properties. It has developed that the octopus has adopted a unique scheme for freezing out their aggressive rivals, in that they are cleverly allowing them control of certain theaters, at the same time grasping more thor-

WITHDRAWS CASE AGAINST COUNCIL

Paducah Distilleries Company Drops Mandamus

Rehkopf Given Until Later to File Schedule and Answer Before Referee.

HAS RETURNED FROM A TRIP

The mandamus case of the Paducah Distilleries company against Henry Bailey, city clerk, and the board of aldermen to compel the clerk and aldermen to issue the firm a liquor license, was dismissed without prejudice.

The case of Anna B. Scott against the Illinois Central road was continued by agreement.

The jury in the case of Jesse J. Knight et al against the Paducah Box & Basket company returned a verdict for the defendant. The action was for $2,000 damages for the loss of his finger at the defendant's plant.

A judgment for distribution was filed in the case of William Turnbo against Sarah Brown.

Courtney Long was allowed $74.55 for taking Agnes Hollman to the reform school.

H. J. Foster, W. J. Whitehead, J. W. Spence and E. D. Thurman were excused as petit jurors, and P. G. Childers, C. C. Rose, A. T. Bohannan substituted.

Rehkopf Given More Time.

The examination of E. Rehkopf individually, and as the head of the bankrupt firm of E. Rehkopf Saddlery company, was postponed from this morning until Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock by Referee E. W. Bagby. Rehkopf has been out of the city but returned a few days ago. He has not completed a full schedule of liabilities and assets of the firm and for this reason the examination was postponed.

Judge Evans has appointed George W. Long, United States marshal, temporary receiver for the E. Rehkopf Saddlery company, bankrupt estate.

Commissioner's Sale.

Master Commissioner Cecil Reed this morning sold property in four actions in court as follows:

In the case of E. P. Weeks against Willie W. Weeks property at Second and Washington streets, was sold to Roy W. McKinney for $17,550. It is the Weeks grocery store property. In the same suit property at Tenth and Monroe streets was sold to Frank M. Fisher for $1,616.

In the action of John Rock, assignee, against the Paducah Towing company, the steamer Mary Michael and barges were sold to F. W. Katterjohn for $2,000.

In the action of R. P. Stanley against William Stanley, partition suit, property in the county known as the old Ratcliffe farm, 97 acres, beyond Maxon Mills, was sold to Charles M. Leake for $4,200. He will convert it into a stock farm and make it his summer home.

In the case of Gip Husband against Sam Holland, property at Seventh and Boyd streets was sold to L. D. Sanders for $525.

For $5,000 Alimony.

Attorneys Eaton & Boyd filed suit this afternoon against Edgar J. Harvick for Ella R. Harvick, asking for a divorce, $5,000 alimony and the custody of their child, Edgar Harvick. Her grounds are cruelty and failure to support. Harvick has been in the restaurant business here.

A delegation of eleven Elks from the lodge of Marion, Ill., spent Sunday in the city. They came here to look over the new Elks' building to get ideas for a new lodge building their lodge in Marion will build. It is probable that they may secure the services of a Paducah architect. In the delegation were: L. W. Barton, D. T. Hartnell, Nook Payne, B. B. Slade, Fred Slotter, L. A. Coby, H. V. Ferrell, Frank Powell, Sego Click, Paul Colp.

The result: The anti-syndicate crowd, the trust claims, will have more theaters than they have plays, and will be placed in the awkward position of being unable to keep going their permanent houses through a lack of attractions. The $50,000,000 corporation has back of it Klaw & Erlanger, Al Hayman, Charles Frohman, Nixon & Zimmerman, the Keith & Proctor Vandeville association, the Western Vaudeville Managers' association, Stair, Havlin & Nicol and the Empire Circuit, the lat-

FOR FIFTEEN DAYS CAT LIES BURIED

Under Four Tons of Coal Shut In By Brick Walls

Has Nothing to Eat or Drink During the Whole Period of Its Imprisonment.

EMACIATED BUT RECOVERING

For fifteen days a cat was buried under two loads of coal in the coal house back of B. J. Billing's Job Printing plant, 122 Broadway, until dug out last Saturday. When dug out, the cat was still alive though it had become emaciated.

Two men dug for several hours Friday night trying to get through the thick brick walls of the coal house, but found they had started in the wrong direction. Saturday morning they began digging again and pierced the walls, releasing the cat from its prison.

During the fifteen days the cat had absolutely nothing to eat or drink. That the cat was buried under the coal house with four tons of coal over it, was discovered by some of the employees of the printing company hearing a faint "meow." For several days the "meow" was heard but it was Friday night before it was located.

The cat was under the floor of the coal house. It had gotten under the floor through a hole, and when the coal wagon driver began to shovel the coal into the house, he placed a board over the hole. When two wagon loads had been emptied into the house, the cat had four solid brick walls on each side and four tons of coal overhead to prevent its exit.

It was October 28 when the coal was placed in the house. Saturday, November 10, the cat was released from its prison. There is no telling how much longer the cat would have lived, but it will recover. The employees of the printing shop fed the cat and today he is showing some spirit.

The river fell .3 in the last 48 hours, the stage this morning being 5.9. Business at the wharf was fair.

"Till hell freezes over then we'll run on the ice." That was the answer made to the question, how long will the Evansville packets be able to run at the present rate of fall in the river?

Speaking of the fall of the rivers, all three, Cumberland, Tennessee and Ohio are getting to a lower point than they have been this year. It is probable that several of the big packets which started out a few weeks ago may have to tie up again.

The Harvester arrived Saturday night with a row of 28 empties from New Orleans and left this morning for Pittsburg.

The tail was where the head ought to be this morning with the Evansville packets. The John S. Hopkins was here but ought to have spent Sunday in Evansville, and the Joe Fowler was at Evansville but should have spent Sunday here. Little water and less labor has reversed the schedules of these boats.

Having had to tie up every night till daybreak, the Georgia Lee was 48 hours late, arriving from Cincinnati. The water is so low that it would have been dangerous for the big steamer to run in the dark. It is uncertain whether the Georgia Lee will attempt another trip with the river at its present stage. They're going to keep on running till they stop, anyhow.

The Clyde will arrive out of the Tennessee river tonight and leave Wednesday for the same river.

Little more than caulking was found necessary on the Shiloh and that boat was let off the ways today, leaving after dinner for the Tennessee river. Capt. Kell is in command. The Shiloh is a mail boat.

The Buttort again skipped the Clarksville trip this week, and will not leave Nashville till this evening. It should have been here this morning to leave for Clarksville, but running conditions are poor.

The Lizzie Archbold an Illinois Central tug came up from Brookport today after ties.

The United States steamer Lookout arrived last night from Tennessee river for coal and stores, and left today on the return trip. The Golden Rod is a short distance up the Tennessee river.

The Inverness left for the Tennessee river after ties for the Ayer-Lord Tie company yesterday.

The Russell Lord arrived today from St. Louis where it had carried a tow of ties.

The Dick Fowler had a good trip to Cairo and way points this morning.

The Rigors of Cold Weather.

Probably at no time of the year does the physical condition of the body demand more attention than just at this season, the beginning of cold weather.

Let the system be run down, or the blood impoverished to any extent and the cold weather goes hard with you. Naturally the thing to do is to get the circulation in good order, and the whole system toned up to stand the rigors of winter.

Some physicians prescribe the daily cold bath, others seek recourse in blood tonics and other stimulants, but, probably the most rational treatment of all is the Osteopathic, as Osteopathy more quickly, and more effectively rights the blood flow and restores normal conditions than any other known treatment.

Osteopathy is only a natural treatment, a method of bloodless surgical manipulations to remove any obstructions interfering with the proper transference of nerve force, or natural blood flow, or the other fluids, to the organ or part involved.

I should like to have you call and let me tell of some Paducah people whom you know well that Osteopathy has done much for, and also to tell you what it will do in your particular case.
